

To the warriors loitering near the great hall, the dogs probably looked happy enough, but Breagha knew better. They watched her go, their haunches tense and ready to drive them forward.

—SCENT OF THE SOUL by Julie Doherty

© juliedoherty.com